TARBELL'S TEACHERS' GUIDE

The Best Book for the Sunday School Ever Printed

REV. DR. R. S. MACARTHUR, Calvary Baptist Church, New York, N. Y.

"I commend the volume without a single qualification and with hearty appreciation of its varied excellencies.'

MR. R. M. INLOW

Field Secretary of the Sunday School Board of the Southern Baptist Convention

"As a Sunday School help, Tarbell's Guide must be placed in a class by itself. Nothing has yet appeared that approaches it in the field it occupies."

REV. DR. R. A. TORREY, The World Famous Evangelist

"The most complete book for Sunday School teachers that I have seen."

REV. DR. B. B. TYLER, President of the International Sunday School Convention, 1902-1905, Member of the International Sunday School Lesson Committee, Pastor of the South Broadway Christian Church, Denver, Colo.

"Who is Martha Tarbell? This I know: She has written the best book of the kind I have seen."

REV. DR. P. S. HENSON, D. D., Tremont Temple, Boston, Mass.

"I am delighted with Tarbell's Teachers' Guide. It is positively the best thing of the kind I have seen."

MR. C. D. MEIGS

General Superintendent and Secretary of the Texas Sunday School Association

"It guides the teachers into broad fields of interesting and helpful information, and supplies more of such information than any other book of the kind yet published.'

REV. DR. J. WILBUR CHAPMAN, The Great Evangelist and Bible Expositor

"Tarbell's Teachers' Guide is a unique book in Sunday School instruction and covers the whole year's work more admirably, in my judgment, than any other book I have seen. The suggestions as to teaching could not be better. I commend it to Sunday School teachers everywhere.

REV. DR. WAYLAND HOYT, 3604 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

"I have only satisfaction and delight to express regarding Tarbell's Teachers' Guide. I think the whole volume—the analysis, arrangement, application, quotations, explanation—indeed, the whole contents and make-up of the book most admirable. I shall, myself, steadily use it, and know nothing better for the Sunday School teacher."

By Martha Tarbell, Ph. D.

THE NEW BOOK BY THE NEW HENTY

Herbert Strang is everywhere accepted as successor to the late G. A. Henty. He is to-day, as Henty was yesterday, the writer of the books dearest to the heart of a boy.

IN CLIVE'S COMMAND

is a royal tale of the fight for the conquest of India. It tells the daring and ingenious exploits of Desmond Burke, a sixteen-year-old boy who follows the brave leader Clive to victory, and is enabled to do him extraordinary service. The famous siege of Calcutta and the splendid battle of Plassey figure in the story. Breathlessly exciting from cover to cover is In Clive's Command.

The Funniest Book Since-

Says Shorty McCabe:

What I need is a life sentence to stay in little old New York.

Maybe Sadie wasn't brought up by a Swedish maid and a French governess from Chelsea, Mass., but she's a real hand-picked pippin. What's more, she's a nice little lady, with nothin' behind her that you couldn't print in a Sunday-school weekly.

Most of the fancy thinkin' I've ever done has been along that line—how to get back to Broadway.

SHORTY McCABE will be the best selling novel of the season! Why?

Ask anyone who has read Shorty's adventures as they have appeared in the Associated Sunday Magazines, and they will tell you SHORTY is a character who will appeal to every reader, man or woman, young or old.

Sewell Ford is a name to conjure with: the author of HORSES NINE, whose work is always full of first-hand humor and sentiment.

"THE BEST NOVEL MARIE CORELLI HAS EVER WRITTEN"

"It seems to me the best of all Miss Corelli's books. She is carried along for the greater part of the tale by a current of pure and high feeling, and she reads a most wholesome lesson to a generation much tempted to cynicism—the eternal lesson that love is the prize and the wealth of life."

Blind Alleys

By GEORGE CARY EGGLESTON

Author of "Dorothy South," etc.

Illustrated. Cloth, $1.50

In "Blind Alleys" George Cary Eggleston enters upon a new field of fiction, casts his work in a larger mould than any that he has hitherto used, and gives us altogether the most important novel that he has yet written. It is a novel of New York life, and is full of those curious and intricate mysteries of life that abound in a great city. There is a sweet and wholesome love story, and altogether the novel is one of peculiarly fascinating interest.

Hearts and the Cross

By HAROLD MORTON KRAMER

Illustrated. Cloth, $1.50

Mr. Kramer is another of the Indiana journalists who have contributed so much to recent literature. The story is of a man whose vigorous personality enables him to secure justice for himself under most trying conditions. His fearless honesty and sympathy provoke deadly hatred, augmented by the jealousy of the lover of the heroine, whose interest in the mysterious preacher, so clearly above his present station, adds fuel to the jealous flame. Lawlessness, heroism and noble self-sacrifice have their part in the development of an intensely dramatic plot.

Whispering Smith

By FRANK H. SPEARMAN

ILLUSTRATED IN COLOR BY N. C. WYETH. $1.50

A tremendous story of the West as it was when the railroad first went through, when men fought rivers, mountains and each other with a sure eye, a quick gun and endless nerve. This is the West where Whispering Smith lived and fought and loved, where George McCloud ran his railroad, where Sinclair opposed them both and Dicksie helped them. There has not been a story like this since Bret Harte's early days.

NOTES IN SEASON.

J. S. OGILVIE PUBLISHING Co. have brought out during the heat of discussion "The New Method of Spelling as Recommended by the Spelling Reform Committee and Approved by President Roosevelt," a little pamphlet giving a list of the 300 words which are now to be "simplified" and a little history of the movement for reform.

Bobbs-Merrill Company have just ready "Blindfolded," by Earle Ashley Walcott, a most exciting story of all kinds of mystery; "In Clive's Command," by Herbert Strang, who is now spoken of as the new Henty, a story of the fight for the conquest of India; and Miss Martha Tarbell's "Teachers' Guide to the International Sunday School Lessons," which has the endorsement of many well-known ministers and other noted men interested in Sunday-school work.

Harper & Brothers have just ready "The Undefiled," by Frances Aymar Mathews, author of "My Lady Peggy Goes to Town," a romance of New York life and modern business methods; and will issue shortly "The $30,000 Bequest," a new volume of selections from the writings of Mark Twain; and "The Crystal Sceptre," a book for boys with a Robinson Crusoe flavor, by Philip Verrill Mighels. New editions are also preparing of "The Mikado's Empire," by William Elliot Griffis; "Dawn in Russia," by Henry W. Nevinson; Margaret Deland's "The Awakening of Helena Richie"; Justus Miles Forman's "Buchanan's Wife," and a 15,000 copies edition of "Ben Hur."

Doubleday, Page & Company have taken over all of Upton Sinclair's former books and will publish them in new and revised editions. The first issued will be "King Mides," first published by the author himself under the title "Springtime and Harvest;" this will be followed by "The Journal of Arthur Stirling," with a new preface by the author, whose history making "The Jungle" is now being read in French under the terrifying title "The Poisoners of Chicago." Rudyard Kipling's new book, "Puck of Pook's Hill," will be ready October 4, with illustrations by Arthur Radham. Miriam Michelson's "Anthony Overman," E. Nesbit's "The Incomplete Amorist," and G. B. Lancaster's "The Spur" are all printing for the third time. Rudyard Kipling's "Kim" has now been translated into Chinese by Dr. Gregson, a very distinguished London scholar.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have ready to-day "Whispering Smith," the long-expected story of the West when the railroad first went through, by Frank H. Spearman; "A Tour of Four Great Rivers," (Hudson, Mohawk, Susquehanna and Delaware,) being the journal of Richard Smith, of Burlington, New Jersey, in 1769, edited with a brief history of pioneer settlement by Francis W. Halsey, and published in a limited edition; "The Social Message of the Modern Pulpit," by the Rev. Dr. Charles Reynolds Brown, of the First Congregational Church, Oakland, Cal., (Lyman Beecher lectures at Yale University, 1906;) "The Art of the Singer," practical hints about vocal technics and style by W. J. Henderson; and four new volumes of the Pocket edition of the works of George Meredith—"Evan Harrington," "One of Our Conquerors," "Shaving of Shagpat," "The Tragic Comedians."

Describes the "Reconstruction" period with the vividness of a camera. Earlier chapters tell of the burning of Columbia, the occupation of Richmond, Lincoln's visit, Jefferson Davis' journeyings and imprisonment. The race problem is handled fearlessly but sanely. The grotesque absurdities of military dictatorship, its corruption, humor and pathos and the details of every day life among the people who had lost their all, are intimately pictured.

 By author of "Squire Phin" and "Up in Maine." A young engineer with both brain and muscle is sent up into the Maine woods to build a short railroad, which must be finished within a certain time. He has the whole responsibility and unlimited authority. The lumber owners object so - strongly to the road, fearing sparks from the locomotive may fire the woods, that the charter is granted the incorporators on condition they run the road in wet weather only—hence the nickname. Rodney Parker, the engineer, needs all his courage and intelligence to conquer the conditions that confront him—but he builds his road on time. Published originally in an abbreviated form as a serial in The Youth's Companion. There are no women characters in the story.

- By the author of "In old Bellaire." While the author states that this is "in no sense history," but "fiction pure and simple" she admits having used incidents familiar to every one, because they were picturesque and readily lent themselves to the purposes of a writer of fiction. "The leader" will at once impress the reader as an idealized portrait of William Jennings Bryan, just as the story of John Dalton's life will be found to largely parallel that of the noted Commoner. "The leader" is a popular idol, who loses the nomination for the Presidency in a convention of his own party because he will not change his platform. A romantic love story runs through the many political scenes and discussions, Dalton fighting social prejudices which separated him from the girl he loved, as well as political conditions.

The hero is a typical American, strong, simple and upright. Left penniless by his father's death, a physician who loses the savings of a life in rash speculations, Jack Gilbert lets no pride stand in his way when it becomes his duty to make a home for his mother. Entering a large mill, in the lowest capacity, he rises to be superintendent and later secretary and treasurer of the company running the mill. He wins, too, the girl he loves, and political advancement is foreshadowed for him in the last chapters. chapters.

OBITUARY NOTES.

De Lee, Obstetrics for nurses, 2d ed.,

WILLIAM BUCK DWIGHT, Professor of Geology and Mineralogy at Vassar College, died August 29 at his summer residence, at Cottage City, Mass., of apoplexy. Professor Dwight was born at Constantinople, Turkey, May 22, 1833. He came to the United States in 1849, and later was a graduate from Yale, later from the Yale Scientific School, and from the Union Theological Seminary. Since 1878 he had been Professor of Natural Science and Curator of the Museum of Vassar College. Professor Dwight was editor of the Department of Geology of the "Standard Dictionary," one of the original Fellows of the Geological Society of America, and a member of the Society for the Advancement of Science and of the American Society of Naturalists.

WILLIAM FDGAR MARSHALL, the well-known artist and engraver, died on August 29 at his studio on the top floor of 711 Broadway, New York, where he had lived for more than forty years. Mr. Marshall was born in New York City in 1835, being the son of Francis Marshall, the senior member of the firm of Marshall, Bates & Co., which built the Merchants' Exchange, afterwards the Custom House, the Astor House, and other famous buildings of the city over half a century ago. After attending public school Mr. Marshall went to Chicago, where he remained until 1852, when he returned to New York City and obtained employment as an engraver in a watch case factory. Having practiced plate engraving in his spare time, he engraved several portraits, the plates of which were bought by a banknote company that refused to employ him as an apprentice. The result was that later he obtained a good position with the company and became its best engraver. In 1861 he went to Paris to study painting. Returning to New York City in 1864 he began work on his portrait engraving of Lincoln, which had an enormous sale. His engraving of Stuart's portrait of Washington also had a wide circulation. Among others of his better-known plates are portraits of Grant and Sherman and the large plate containing the portraits of Daniel Appleton and his sons, of the publishing house of D. Appleton & Co.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

SEPTEMBER 8, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or com-

The cutoff the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the Publishers' Weekly solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the Publishers' Weekly is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."-LORD BACON.

CLASSIFYING SECOND-HAND BOOKS.*

Much time would be saved by booksellers in storing, cataloguing and selling books if a definite system of classification were adopted conforming, for instance, to that used in the "A. L. A. Catalog," published by the Government Printing Office at Washington for the Library of Congress, in 1904. This is based on the Dewey, or Decimal System, of Classification, the chief arguments in favor of which are that it is familiar to libraries and men of science throughout the world, that it is easily learned and comprehended, and that it is flexible enough to cover all the needs of the bookseller as well as of the librarian.

The field of knowledge, according to the Dewey system of classification, as briefly explained in the introduction to the "Decimal Classification and Relative Index," published by the Library Bureau at Boston, "is divided into nine main classes, and these are numbered by the digits I to 9."

Cyclopedias, periodicals, etc., so general in character as to belong to no one of these classes, are marked nought, and form a tenth class. Each class is similarly separated into nine divisions, general works belonging to no division having nought in place of the division number. Divisions are similarly divided into nine sections, and the process is repeated as often as necessary. Thus 512 means Class 5 (Natural science), Division 1 (Mathematics), Section 2 (Algebra), and every algebra is numbered 512.

The books on the shelves and the cards in the subject catalog are arranged in simple numerical order, all class numbers being decimals. Since each subject has a definite number, it follows that all books on any subject must stand together. The tables [given below] show the order in which subjects follow one another. Thus 512 Algebra precedes 513 Geometry, and follows 511 Arithmetic.

In the book after the tables of the classes arranged in their numerical order is an index, in which all the heads of the tables are arranged in one simple alphabet, with the class number of each referring to its exact place in the preceding tables. This index includes also, as far as they have been found, all the synonyms or alternative names for the heads, and many other entries that seem likely to help a reader find readily the subject sought. Though the user knows just where to turn to his subject in the tables, by first consulting the index he may be sent to other allied subjects, where he will find valuable matter which he would otherwise overlook.

The claims of the system may be summed up as follows: compared with other systems it is less expensive; more easily understood, remembered, and used; practical rather than theoretical; brief and familiar in its nomenclature; best for arranging pamphlets, sale duplicates, and notes, and for indexing; susceptible of partial and gradual adoption without confusion; more convenient in keeping statistics and checks for books off the shelves; the most satisfactory adaptation of the card catalog principle to the shelves. It requires less space to shelve the books; uses simpler symbols and fewer of them; can be expanded, without limit and without confusion or waste of labor, in both catalogs and on shelves, or in catalogs alone; checks more thoroughly and conveniently against mistakes; admits more readily numerous cross references; is unchangeable in its call-numbers, and so gives them in all places where needed, as given in no other system; in its index affords an answer to the greatest objection to class catalogs, and is the first satisfactory union of the advantages of the class and dictionary sys-

- In the same manner each class, subject and section is divided and subdivided. The Expansive Classification, developed by the late Charles Ammi Cutter, (the complete series of which is now being published by W. P. Cutter, Forbes Library, Northampton, Mass.,) has been described by those who have used it as common-sense and up-to-date. It it said to be clear and easy to apply and that it gives a suitable place for many classes of books for which other systems make no provision or for which they provide hadly.

Here, then, are at least two well-known and tried systems of classification which the bookseller need have no hesitation to adopt, and which will enable him to plan and lay out his stock in such a manner as to enable him in the least possible time to get from the shelves any book that his stock-list may show him to be on hand. Not only will such a system save the bookseller time, but it will also be a positive attraction as well as temptation for the customer who may be prowling around for books on certain subjects to know that he can find everything that the bookseller has on hand on those subjects grouped together.

It were also desirable that a uniform system of abbreviations, designation of sizes, etc., be adopted not only by the second-hand bookseller, but by the booktrade in general. The road in this direction is also clear enough, having been blazed and smoothed by the librarian. Two useful books in this direction are "Rules for a Dictionary Catalog," by Charles A. Cutter, of which a fourth edition, rewritten, was published in 1904 by the U. S. Bureau of Education in its Special Report on Public Libraries-Part 2, (Whole Number 340;) also, the New York "Library School Card Catalog Rules," edited by Melvil Dewey, of which a fourth edition was brought out in 1802 by the Library Bureau of Boston.

COMMUNICATIONS.

AS TO THE "TRUE WAY OUT."
To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: The true way out of the difficulties which confront the booktrade lies not in settling the questions of discounts and distribution of new stock. They began with the decay of the bookseller, they will end with his renaissance. Once the bookseller was "guide, counsellor and friend" to the reader and bookbuyer; now it is the publicity department and the "best selling books" that direct the literary wanderer.

The exploiting of books, trivial and often trashy; the absence of true criticism; the cheap reprints of old plates—which never seem too worn for some publisher to foist upon a good-natured public and sell to the benighted bookseller; the lack of men who earnestly study books and strive to know the best and sell the best, are the true causes of the sad state of the booktrade.

One of our humorists, speaking of a "highly cultured" young lady, said: "She got through her primer, read the Rollo books, then sprang right into Ibsen." What else could the poor girl do? Suppose the man who supplied the primer and the Rollo books had been "on his job?" He would have led her into Elsie Dinsmore, then Rosa N. Carey and Mary Cecil Hay, along to Mrs. Humphry Ward, William Dean Howells, George Meredith and Henry James before he allowed all that ready money to get into Ibsen. Sec, too, the rich (ene-third or two-fifths off) bypaths he could have pointed out for her delight as she journeyed.

The average bookseller evidently does not know wood pulp from parchment, a patched-up plagiarism on an old masterpiece from an original production; and the thought of how he may turn to profit that large and very profitable class of readers who are looking for "something good to read" (not necessarily fiction) never enters his most industrious dreams. At the most advertised books his knowledge and interest ceases. Besides a few "most popular books" and "best sellers" his shelves shine forth with a glittering array of soul-worrying plugs.

The publishers are not without sin. Why issue books at $1.50 to sell at $1.08 with a blare of "protected," "A. P. A." and "net," etc.? This denies the whole thing for sincerity to the public mind. Why issue year after year the same old books, which may well be called "Neglected Reading," "Noman's Library," "Infamous Classics"—intelligent folk are tired of them and others cannot be tempted by them. There are hundreds of others, better, fresher and more enteresting that will sell.

When intelligence and a familiarity with modern business methods begins to control and direct the majority of bookstores, the question of discounts, protection and distribution of the newly published books will be settled and the money spent in scarehead ads., buying reviews and exploiting authors and their works will go into the bookman's cash drawer, and he can advertise, too.

The butcher, baker and gas man, also the tailor, the ice man and the hated coal baron, and many more, secure the finest ability and the highest possible skill, and pay a living wage to the men who serve the public with things they must have, whether or not, but your bookseller is "too sharp for that." He hires a discarded plumber's apprentice, or a misfit toy clerk at errand-boy pay, and expects him to serve possible patrons who may happen to fancy one or more of, say, five million books. The result is plain to any one who ever asked a question a half dozen times in as many bookstores.

I would suggest that booksellers read the quotation at the head of the editorial page of The Publishers' Weekly at least once a week for ten years or so. That will help some.

Very truly yours,

John H. Wills.

TABLET IN MEMORY OF JACOB ABBOTT.

Ar "Fewacres," in Farmington, Me., in 1838, Jacob Abbott, the author of the Rollo Books, set up a school which under the name of Farmington Academy is still in existence. A tablet is to be put on the outside of the house, inscribed as follows:

FEWACRES The later home of JACOB ABBOTT 1803-1879

Preacher of the Gospel of Christ,
Teacher of the laws of nature and life,
Pioneer in the education of youth,
Friend and guide of children,
Master in the art of gentle measures,
Minister to the higher life of man

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

W. ROBERTSON NICOLL has said that "The Treasure of Heaven: a romance of riches," "seems to me the best of all Miss Corelli's books." Dodd, Mead & Company are satisfied with its selling qualities.

G. K. CHESTERTON, that great and peerless literary critic, has completed a study of Charles Dickens, which is intended as "a general justification of Dickens." Comment is superfluous. Every lover of Dickens will rejoice and be glad.

GEORGE W. JORDAN, author of "The Kingship of Self Control," has had the honor of a request from T. Sans, chief librarian of the Yamaguchi Public Library of Japan, to be allowed to translate his successful book into the Japanese language.

IAN MACLAREN, who is deeply interested in Welsh life, has paid a visit to the National Eisteddfod at Carnarvon in company with Andrew Carnegie. The two Scotchmen have made interesting comparisons of Scotch and Welsh character and customs.

LEN' G. BROUGHTON, author of the recently published "Table Talks of Jesus," has sailed for England to fill the pulpit of Westminster Chapel while Dr. Campbell Morgan, its well-known pastor, is preaching in America, for the moment in New York City.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

Newspaper Talk, formerly issued at Carnegie, Pa., has resumed publication with August isue at Pittsburg, Pa.

Scribner's Magazine for September has an article on "Ibsen," by James Huneker, and one on the late Eastman Johnson, by William Walton.

Gunter's Magazine for September contains the beginning of the sequel to "Mr. Barnes of New York" under the title "The Shadow of a Vendetta."

THE September number of The Reader brings a paper on Thackeray, Trollope, Dickens and other writers of their day, by Professor Gamaliel Bradford, Jr., entitled "Mid-Nineteenth Century Realism."

THE September Atlantic Monthly contains "Three American Poets of the Day," by May Sinclair: William Vaughn Moody, Edwin Arlington Robinson and Ridgely Torrence; "The Novels of Thomas Hardy," by May Moss; and "The Power of Bible Poetry," by J. H. Gardiner.

T. P. O'CONNOR'S paper recently offered prizes for the best essays on the subject "My Favorite Novel and Why." The awards were made on "Salammbo," "Manon Lescaut," "Tom Jones," "Lavengro," "Three Guardsmen" and "David Copperfield." Publisher and Retailer for August prints the essays which won first, second, third and fourth prizes.

The American Monthly Review of Reviews for September contains an article by W. S. Rossiter on "Printing and Publishing: the Barometer Industry," in which the statistics given for 1900 to 1905 show steadily growing prosperity. Three maps of the United States are given in which the shading shows an increase of more than 50 per cent. in the value of products in their respective lines: 1, Printing and publishing; 2, Newspapers and periodicals; 3, Book and job printing. The West and South furnish statistics of special interest.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

MITCHELL KENNERLEY has just ready "Shorty McCabe," by Sewell Ford, which has had a successful run in the Associated Sunday magazines. The author of "Horses Nine" is always full of humor and has the accompanying touch of sentiment that makes humor so much more delightful.

THE RONALD PRESS Co., New York, will issue during the fall "Colds, Coughs and Sore Throats: their cause, prevention and cure," by Dr. William Conyngton; and "Financing and Enterprise: a manual of information and suggestion for promoters, investors and business men generally," by Francis Cooper.

Cupples & Leon will have ready September 22 "Cupid's Middleman," by Edward B. Lent, author of "Being Done Good," which will relate the odd housekeeping experiences of two bachelors brightened by the influence of a fine type of new woman and made really instructive by the suggestive philosophy woven into the bright story.

raignment of modern "high finance" by George Carling, who describes the career of a man of business from typist to trust magnate and his unscrupulous fight against the Standard Wool Trust, rascals against rascals, which ends in a dramatic climax.

Baker & Taylor Co. announce for September 15 "Max Fargus," by Owen Johnson, the tale of a strong man's revenge, said to be equal to the author's great success "Arrows of the Almighty"; and they have just ready "Power Lot," a strong novel of Nova Scotia by that past master in stories of the Atlantic sea coast, Sarah P. McLean Greene.

BLOCH PUBLISHING COMPANY, New York, have in press "A Jewish Reply to Christian Evangelists," by Lewis A. Hart, former lecturer on law of McGill University, Montreal. The book is a republication of articles that were written to the Jewish Times of Montreal in answer to the arguments Christian evangelists advance in their efforts to convert Jews to Christianity.

THOMAS WHITTAKER will issue shortly "Religion and Experience," a volume of entirely new and hitherto unpublished sermons by J. Brierly, popularly known as "J. B.;" and the American edition of "A Mission of the Spirit," consisting of addresses by the Bishop of London, the Rt. Rev. A. F. Winnington Ingram, which he delivered during a progressive mission in his diocese last Lent.

Dodge Publishing Company have ready "Cosy Corner Confidences," by Walter Pulitzer; "The Ingoldsby Legends," in two handy volumes; "The Biography of Our Baby," verses by Edmund Vance Cooke, whose "Told to the Little Tot" will be ready during the month; "The Philosophy of Rest," by E. A. Fletcher; and "Here's a Body," a motto for a child's room, a pretty card by Thomas Hood.

THE PENN PUBLISHING COMPANY announce the third volume in Margaret Ward's series of stories about a young college girl, entitled "Betty Wales, Junior," in which the already very popular Betty becomes member of a "Merry Hearts" society, formed to promote cheerfulness among members and outsiders, and takes a holiday trip to the Bahamas, full of delightful happenings and surprises.

LIFE PUBLISHING COMPANY will publish in the early autumn "The Silent War," by J. A. Mitchell, dealing with the great sociological problems of the present day. The "silent war" is waged between a secret organization, known as "The People's League," and all the millionaires of America. A charming love story enlivens rather sombre facts, and the book is of larger calibre than "The Pines of Lory," "Amos Judd" and "The Villa Claudia."

B. W. HUEBSCH, New York, will publish during September "Are You a Bromide?" by Gelett Burgess, who is as funny with pencil as with pen, and has drawn a ludicrously appropriate cover design and decorations for the text. He first expounded his sulphitic theory in a magazine article which led to the N. Y. World establishing a Bromide Department for the edification of its readers. Will Irwin's "The City That Was" (San Francisco) is selling well on the Pacific Coast.

JOHN W. LUCE & COMPANY will publish September 14 "The Book of Spice," by "Ginger," who is author and illustrator and has done much well-known work, but prefers not to have his name appear on this collection of odd, original, snappy jingles and paragraphs which he has illustrated in strange and divers ways. On September 10 they publish the third volume of "The Plays of Oscar Wilde," containing "Salome," "Duchess of Padua" and "Vera," and also issue at the same time "Salome" as a separate volume, with the original Aubrey Beardsley illustrations.

Moffat, Yard & Company will publish during the early autumn "How to Appreciate Music," by Gustav Kobbé; "Behind the Scenes with Wild Animals," a study of animals in captivity by Ellen Velvin, who has had the special assistance of Mr. Hornaday, of the New York Zoological Park; and "The Von Blumers," by Tom Masson, recounting the experiences of a typical American family and their dog in Tom Masson's inimitable vein of humor and pure, good fun. Brady and Peple's "Richard the Brazen" is already in a second large edition, and orders and reorders are keeping everybody busy.

ARTHUR POOLE & COMPANY, Toronto, have nearly ready "The International Digest of Criminal Case Law," by George E. McCrossan, Samuel D. Schultz and Andrew M. Harper, all barristers-at-law in Vancouver, British Columbia. The work will be in three volumes devoted respectively to I, Canadian Criminal Law; 2, American Criminal Law; 3, English Criminal Law. The general scheme of arrangement is alphabetical and careful cross references make the vast amount of information available at shortest notice. Subscriptions for this valuable work of law reference will be received at a special price before publication.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. have in preparation "Famous Actor Families in America," by Montrose J. Moses, a New York critic; "Every Man a King," by Dr. O. S. Marden, who makes a powerful plea for mental influence; "The Hope of Immortality," by Dr. Charles F. Dole, the lecture to be delivered for the Ingersoll lectureship at Harvard University this fall; "The Spirit of the Orient," by Professor George William Knox, who has studied the awakening of the East on the spot; "Famous American Songs," by Gustav Kobbé; "The Open Secret of Nazareth," by Dr. Bradley Gilman; and "Animal Serials," made up of the collected drawings of E. Warde Blaisdell, which have so delighted the readers of Scribner's Magazine and of Life.

FLEMING H. REVELL Co. will publish shortly "On the Trail of the Emigrant," by Professor Edward A. Steiner, of Grinnell College, who for the past twenty-five years has each year crossed the ocean to the centres of emigration and studied the emigrant in his home surroundings. He has also worked among immigrants in the sweat shop, in the coal mines of Pennsylvania and the forests of Wisconsin, and as he speaks five languages fluently has been able to come into close contact with the people he has studied so earnestly. Rev. Charles Stelzle's "Messages to Working Men" have been emphatically praised by the labor union press of the country; and in the "simplifying" of English now in order O'Connor's "The Students' Complete Esperanto Text-Book" makes steady appeal for a simple language for all nations.

THE J. S. OGILVIE PUBLISHING COMPANY has purchased from Will Rossiter, of Chicago, the latter's entire stock of plates and books. The list comprises forty-three titles, and is well known to the dealers in paper books throughout the West, many of the books having a steady sale. They include recitations, monologues, joke books, toasts, conundrums, funny stories and practical manuals of various kinds. The stock of books numbers more than 100,000 volumes, and before making new editions the Ogilvie Company offers them to the trade, in selected lots, at $45 per thousand, and at $35 per thousand if the purchaser takes an equal number of each book. The books have been listed at ten, fifteen and twenty-five The books cannot now be manufaccents. tured for the price at which they are offered, and when they are reprinted, as most of them will be, they will again bring the regular trade price of from six to fifteen cents.

LITTLE, BROWN & COMPANY publish to-day the first of their new fall books. Among them are "An Atlas of Physiology and Anatomy," a series of colored plates with many superimposed layers, and descriptive matter by Dr. Alfred M. Amadon; "The White Crystals," by Howard R. Garis; and "The Mysterious Beacon Light," by George E. Walsh, telling of adventures of four boys in Labrador, both in the Boys' and Girls' Bookshelf Series; and new editions of "The Letters of Emily Dickinson from 1847 to 1866," edited by Mabel Loomis Todd; and of "The Awakening of the Duchess," by Frances Charles. The Handy Volume Classics is a new 16mo series of choicely printed volumes, bound in silk cloth, and the first issues include "Thoughts of Marcus Aurelius," "Discourses and Enchiridion" of Epictetus; Bacon's "Essays" and "Wisdom of the Ancients;" Walton and Cotton's "Complete Angler;" and Lamb's "Essays of Elia" and "Last Essays of Elia," which are also published in a New Handy Library edition, with introduction by George W. Woodberry.

SMALL, MAYNARD & COMPANY are announcing for the fall season books in several lines of literature. In fiction they are preparing "The Secret of the Moor Cottage," by H. Ripley Cromarsh, a sister of A. Conan Doyle, who also writes a fascinating detective story of mystery and adventure; "Father Pink," by Alfred Wilson Barrett, a stirring novel by the author of "The Silver Pin," in which large property rights, hoarded diamonds and risk of life among trained lions add to the excitement of the clever plot; and "The Electric Theft," by Neil Wynn Williams, the story of an English engineer sent to Athens to discover the theft of electricity from the Athenian Electric Power Company. For children there will be "The Cheerful Cricket and Others," by Jeannette L. Marks; and "Stella's Adventures in Starland," by Elbridge H. Sabin. In miscellaneous literature there are in active preparation "The Nibelungen Lied," translated by John Storer Cobb; "Love Sonnets of To-day," edited by Laurens Maynard; "Intimations of Immortality," compiled by Helen P. Patten; and "Humor of Bulls and Blunders," edited by Marshall Brown.

HERBERT B. TURNER & Co. announce some bcoks of speculation and scientific argument on subjects of theological and religious nature. "Proofs of Life After Death," by Robert J. Thompson, is a collection of the opinions of such eminent scientific men and thinkers as Professors N. S. Shaler, Charles Ricket, Brunot, Flammarion, Hyslop, Lombroso, Simon Newcomb, Alfred Russel Wallace and many others, the work designed for those who wish evidence other than theological; "The Historical Bases of Religion: Primitive, Babylonian and Jewish," by Hiram Chellis Brown, being an admirable survey of the leading works on higher criticism and modern research based upon the initial study of the psychology of the religious science in primitive man; "Scientific Bases of Sabbath and Sunday," by Professor R. J. Floody, tracing the history of the seventh day holy day from its beginnings in moon worship, through all its ramifications among different religions and sects of religions to the present day. G. Stanley Hall, president of Clark University, has furnished an illuminating introduction to this instructive book. Five more volumes are ready in the new Stevenson edition: "Treasure Island," "Kidnapped," "Master of Ballantrae," "New Arabian Nights," "Merry Men" and "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

D. APPLETON & Co. have just published "The Guarded Flame," a remarkably well-told story by William Babington Maxwell of the life of a scientist who absorbs the entire life of his wife, as she protects him from all intrusion and utterly effaces every personal taste to help along his great work; "Three Speeds For-ward," an automobile story by Lloyd Osbourne; and "A Midsummer Day's Dream," an artistic and literary story by H. B. Marriott Watson. Other works of fiction shortly promised include "The Victory," by Molly Elliot Seawell, giving an intimate picture of life on a great Virginia plantation during the Civil War; "Hearts Triumphant," by Mrs. Edith Sessions Tupper, telling of Madam Betty Jumel in her historic home on Washington Heights; "The Little King of Angel's Landing," by Elmore Elliott Peake; "Truthful Jane," by Florence Morse Kingsley; "Under Castle Walls," a tale of mediæval Italy by H. C. Bailey; "The Waving of Folly," by James L. Ford, written in letters which genially satirize the vulgar rich of New York City; "In Cure of Her Soul," by F. J. Stimson, ("J. S. of Dale,") a novel proving that a husband has the care of his wife's soul, and that divorce is but an unworthy shirking of a great responsibility; and "The Avenging Hour," a story by H. F. Prevost Battersby, fearlessly treating primal emotions and their results in the complex social life of the day. In more serious literature this house will issue "The Secrets of the Old Masters," by Albert Abendschein: and "Memoirs of My Dead Life," by George Moore.

E. P. DUTTON & COMPANY will publish at once "Life in Morocco," by Budgett Meakin, of which parts 2 and 3 are on political questions and the outlook; and later promise " Child's Recollections of Tennyson," by Edith Nicholl Ellison; and "The Games Book for Boys and Girls," produced by Ernest Nister with his usual wealth of fine illustrations in black and white and color. "Empires and Emperors of Russia, China, Korea and Japan, being notes and recollections by Monsignor Count Vay De Vaya and Luskod," is also just issued. The probability of the author being not so well known in England and America as on the continent of Europe has caused John Murray to write a preface in which he traces back the Count's ancestry 900 years, tells of his accomplishments, and of his signal work in the Roman Catholic Church. In virtue of his important place in the church he attended the diamond jubilee of Queen Victoria in 1897 as envoy of Pope Leo XIII. From his high rank he gained advantages of observation not accorded to all travellers, and what he has written is done with directness and simplicity. They have also just ready "The House of Cobwebs, and Other Stories," by George Gissing. This last and, we believe, final volume of Gissing, has fifteen stories, and contains an introductory survey of his work as a whole by Thomas Seccombe, with a chronological record of his works, and a list of reviews of Gissing other than those mentioned in the "survey." They will also publish very shortly "Court Life in the Dutch Republic, 1638-1689," by the Baroness Suzette Van Zuylen Van Nyvelt; and "Reason in Architecture," by T. G. Jackson, R.A., M.A., F.S.A., being lectures delivered at the Royal Academy of Arts during the present year.

PICK-UPS.

SCRIBBLER.—"I'll starve before I will write anything not equal to the greatest poets." Critic.—"I shouldn't be surprised."—Judge.

HARD TO TELL.—The worried proofreader wrinkled his weary brow as he read over the slip he held for the twentieth consecutive time with less apprehension each time of its meaning. "I wish I knew for sure," he groaned as he tied his tenth wet towel around his head, "if this is just 'pi' they are afraid to own up to or really that essay by Henry James that was sent up to-day?"—Baltimore American.

DID IT WITH HIS LITTLE Ax.—Punch this week, in a full-page cartoon by Edward Linley Sambourne, shows "Teddy" Roosevelt, in cowboy costume, sleeves rolled up, standing, hatchet in hand, by a great tree which represents the English language. Father Time, examining the tree with a powerful magnifying glass, observes a slight incision in the trunk. "Who's been trying to cut down this tree?" he asks. "Father," answers Teddy, "I kannot tel a lie. I did it with my litl ax."

To this Father Time replies: "Ah, well; boys will be boys."

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five non-pareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

DOES ADVERTISING PAY?

If the "Dodge" publications were not a little better made, a little more original in design and much more profitable to the retailer than most lines it would not pay us to continuously advertise them. One sale alone as a result of advertising is not as a rule profitable. It is one sale plus a customer made permanent through satisfaction that builds up a business. It is the quality, originality and profitable character of our publications that makes them the central attraction in most bookstores everywhere.

by Walter Pulitzer. A companion volume to "A Cynic's Meditations."

This is a rare collection of real epigrams, originally witty and worthy of a permanent place on any library shelf. The sayings are even better than "A Cynic's Meditations," (now in its 16th edition), concerning which John Kendrick Bangs said:—"Many of the epigrams are delicious," and the London Sketch adds:—"We certainly place Mr. Pulitzer far above other American writers of epigrams." Made in unusual size and style. Boards, 75 cents; leather, $1.00. (Ready.)

THE INGOLDSBY LEGENDS. A handsome edition of this favorite classic, beautifully printed and bound. Made in two handy volumes with frontispiece in photogravure. Cloth, $1.50; limp leather, $2.50. (Ready.)

HE BIOGRAPHY OF OUR BABY. Verses by Edmund Vance Cooke and drawings by Bessie Collins Pease. An entirely new baby record book. New colored plates by a popular artist; verses by the author of "Chronicles of the Little Tot," and paper made to be written on with pen and ink. These are a few of the points that go to make this the best book on the market at the price. Cloth, $1.50; silk, padded, $3.00; ooze leather, $4.00. (Ready.)

OLD TO THE LITTLE TOT. Edmund Vance Cooke's first book for children is going to make a decided hit everywhere. Bound uniform with his volume of poems about children, "Chronicles of the Little Tot," and containing thirtynine illustrations by Bessie Collins Pease, nine in full color. There is probably no one in the world better fitted to tell stories to children than Mr. Cooke. His recent poems about children show a wonderful insight and a thorough knowledge of child-life and character, and in a

Mr. Cooke's other works are "Rimes to be Read," miscellaneous poems; Cloth, $1.50; "Chronicles of the Little Tot," poems about children, Cloth, $1.50.

HE PHILOSOPHY OF REST by E.A. Fletcher. A work of great helpfulness to those who would find rest from the nerve-wrecking rush of present-day life. Cloth, 75 cents. (Ready.)

The above are only a few of the many good things we have to offer the trade for the coming holiday season. We would suggest a personal visit to our comfortable sample rooms, if convenient, but if you cannot visit us we promise you careful and prompt attention by mail. Samples will be cheerfully forwarded to responsible booksellers and advertising literature gratis. If you have not got our booklet "Good Things for Booklovers" send for it to-day.

IMPORTANT NEW BOOKS

THE new novel by the author of "The Rose of Old St. Louis" has already gone into a second printing—before publication:

The Leader

By MARY DILLON

It is a significant story of "John Dalton," man of the people, and a rising power. Illustrated. ($1.50.)

"The Madonna of the Wickliffe Sisters."

Dixie After the War

By MYRTA LOCKETT AVARY

With an introduction by General CLEMENT A. EVANS

No book hitherto published gives such a vivid picture of the South during Reconstruction. Chapters describing the burning of Columbia, occupation of Richmond, the Prisoner of Fortress Monroe, and the "Devil on the Santee" claim more than sectional interest; they are as thrilling as romance. It is a startling book of revelations. Uniform with "A Belle of the Fifties," etc. 32 fine illustrations. ($3.03, postpaid.)

The Airship Dragonfly

By WILLIAM J. HOPKINS

A thrilling book of the experiences of three youngsters who loose themselves in an airship. Charmingly illustrated. ($1.50.)

Songs Every Child Should Know

Edited by DOLORES BACON

An admirable collection of more than 100 songs, with the music. Uniform with "Poems, Fairy Tales, Myths," etc., "Every Child Should Know." Decorated by B. OSTERTAG. ($1.00, postpaid.)

P. S.—"The Dog Book," by James Watson, now ready in two handsome volumes. $12.00. (Subscription.)

The New Novel

By GUSTAV FRENSSEN

Author of "Jorn Uhl"

HOLYLAND

Exclusive Authorized Translation

We have concluded arrangements for the publication of the exclusive authorized translation of "Holyland," pronounced by competent critics to be the greatest novel of modern times. Of this work in the German version eighty thousand copies were sold almost immediately after its publication. The scenes and characters are drawn from among the humble seafaring folk who live on the borders of the German Ocean. Their life, love, and suffering are wonderfully shown and described. The hero, Kai Jans, makes several long sea voyages, of which the descriptions are wonderfully vivid and interesting. His love-affairs are told with unsurpassed charm and pathos, and the struggles, misfortunes, and the final physical breakdown which prepares his mind and soul for their real awakening are a triumph of word picturing. Religious thought has a large place in the work, and the conception of divinity worked out is bold, startling, original, yet inspiring in the highest degree. This phase of the book does not interrupt the flow of the narrative, but justifies it, and is its triumph and crown. The story is full of masterly descriptions, is full of pathos, poetry, joy and sorrow, love and passion; its character painting is true to life; the personages, although all of them are peasants and sailors, live and excite the liveliest interest. We have no hesitation in proclaiming it one of the greatest novels of all time, and that it must have a tremendous influence on the thought of the day.

The Historical Bases of Religions

Primitive, Babylonian and Jewish

By HIRAM CHELLIS BROWN

$1.50 net; postage, 12 cents

Beginning with the psychology of the religious science in primitive man, the author traces its development into the religion of the Babylonian and Hebrew Peoples, thence into the spiritualized and cultured religion of the Christian. The book is an admirable survey of the leading works on Higher Criticism and Modern Research to which the author has added valuable data. Chapters are devoted to the Babylonian civilization, the early history of Jewish People, and a critical analysis of the teachings of the Prophets.

Scientific Bases of Sabbath and Sunday

By Prof. R. J. FLOODY

With introduction by G. STANLEY HALL, President of Clark University

12mo, cloth, $1.50 net; postage 12 cents

The title might well read Ancient Moon Worship and Its Relation to the Sabbath, for following the lines of modern scholarship and higher criticism the author traces the history of the Seventh Day from its dim beginning in moon worship through the Seventh Day Feast of the Semitic races into the Physical Rest day of the early Israelites and on through its evolution as first a Memorial Day of the deliverence from Egypt—Second a Sign Day between Jehara and the Israelites in Exile, and third a Priestal Day. Passing from the Sabbath the author shows the entire independence of the Lord's Day from the Mosaic decree, tracing its origin from a memorial day of the resurrection of Christ, and its development through the first five Centuries, and later, Catholicism and the Reformation to modern times.

The author of the BOOK OF SPICE is a writer of widespread fame, who in this instance modestly hides behind a pseudonym to observe the reception of his first pictures, and his new ideas in humor to fit them.

Out Sept. 14

It may seem almost impossible, but the author-illustrator has evolved a Book of Humor built on a new plan.

Original, odd and snappy jingles and paragraphs, set in double page illustrations, which are drawn in strange and divers ways.

Pepper is very lively, Cinnamon is different, Thyme is not dull, Cloves leave no bad taste, Sage suggests no end of wisdom, Mustard is brilliant, Mace is irresistible, but this Book is
